SAN FRAN'S MOST BEAUTIFUL BILLET

Offering stunning views of the iconic Golden Gate Bridge, the new Lodge at the Presidio, which opens in June, is expected to bring new levels of luxury to one of San Francisco's most beautiful parks. Building on the success of the Park's first hotel, the Inn at Presidio, which opened in 2012, this newly rehabilitated historic boutique hotel boasts just 42 rooms, housed in the former army post's Montgomery Street Barracks, which were built by the US Army between 1895-97. Lovingly restored by Architectural Resources Group and LC Interiors, the barracks has been reimagined as a contemporary and luxurious retreat while retaining its historic significance, with guest rooms featuring mesmerizing bridge views, modern furnishings, and touches of memorabilia. After a day exploring the city or the park's hiking trails and bikeways, return to the Lodge in time for cocktails served by the garden fire pit. www.presidiolodging.com
